Claims 3, 5, 7 are generic to a plurality of disclosed patentably distinct species comprising health problems. Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species, even though this requirement is traversed.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

During a telephone conversation with Z. Alathari on 12/20/05 a provisional election was made with traverse to prosecute the invention of coronary artery disease. Affirmation of this election must be made by applicant in replying to this Office action. Claims 5, 16 are withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4, 6-8, 10, 11, 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Summerbell et al (BMJ 317 1998 p. 1487-89).

Art Unit: 1616

Summerbell et al teach weight loss in obese patients on a diet comprising milk or yoghurt (abstract, p. 1488 under "milk only").

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill to formulate a high calcium diet for obese patients to achieve the beneficial effect of a reduction in body fat content in view of the Summerbell et al.

As to the particular claimed dosage frequency and amount, optimum parameters may be obtained by routine experimentation. In re Boesch 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980). One of ordinary skill will recognize that reduction in body fat content is a consequence of lipolysis of fat. One of ordinary skill, even the layman, recognizes that obesity is a risk factor for coronary artery disease, and, therefore, loss of weight will reduce the risk of this disease.

Claims 1-4, 6-11, 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Metz et al (AJH 1:58-60 1988).

Metz et al teach a reduction in body fat content in rats consuming higher diets of calcium (abstract).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill to formulate a high calcium diet for humans to achieve the beneficial effect of a reduction in body fat content in view of the Metz et al results.

As to the particular claimed dosage frequency and amount, optimum parameters may be obtained by routine experimentation. In re Boesch 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980). One of ordinary skill will recognize that reduction in body fat content is a consequence of lipolysis of fat in adipocytes. One of ordinary skill, even the layman, recognizes that obesity is a risk factor for coronary artery disease, and, therefore, loss of weight will reduce the risk of this disease.

No claims allowed.
